THE MUD CUT WRECK.

A TRAVELER FROM THE WEST RELATES THE STORY.

An Interview with a Learned Gentleman that Developed Some Information About the Matter.

A telegram in the NEWS yesterday stated that the passenger train on the W. N. C. R. R. was wrecked at Mud Cut last Saturday night. The acquaintance of a traveler from that famous spot was worth cultivating. Upon the arrival of the train from the west yesterday noon a NEWS runner was sent to make diligent enquiry for "a passenger just from Mud Cut." His diligence was rewarded. The very gentleman of all others stepped from the car and "had the honor of having passed through that notable place a few evenings ago. What would the NEWS gather know?" This opened up the way and the "honored traveler" was promptly informed that a description of the western wilds, was wanted. The truth is the reporter has tried so often to get a full statement of the facts about Mud Cut that he was afraid to say 'pint blank" he was in search of information about the recent land slide, for fear he would "bluff him off" with the old expression. "Oh Mud Cut's all right. It really is a benefit to the road. Best thing could have happened to it." The travelers seemed gracious enough and appointed a place of meeting later in the day. The engagement was promptly kept and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon an interesting interview ensued.

By way of introduction and in justice to the traveler, whose name is withheld by request, the reporter would state that he is a gentleman of great literary and scientific attainments and is possessed of probably as much information concerning the resources of this State as any other living man. This will give more weight to the statements made in the interview than possibly they would otherwise contain.

"You say you have recently passed through mud cut?"

"I did, at least I was on the train Saturday evening, that came very near passing through that place."

"Then there really was a "slide," was there?"

"Well that's what they call it, but this is no new thing. It may be called chronic, if you will pardon the expression."

"I'll pardon anything. You know that's our business, at least that's what's expected of the newspapers; but by way of diversion suppose you give us an account of your trip via. "earth cut," I believe that's what they call it now."

"If you won't tell anybody I will."

The NEWS man lost all hope at this turn in the conversation. It was the old tale over again. But he rallied and made a desperate attempt to convince the learned gentleman that no harm could come of it, and finally persuaded him to tell the story, "if his name was not mentioned in connection therewith." This assurance had to be given before he would move a peg. Then it came, full and free, like the rush of pent up waters at the breaking away of all obstructions. The gentleman looked as though a great weight had been lifted from him. He evidently wanted to tell somebody all about it, but then, those western fellows would come down on him like a pile of bricks, if they knew it was him, and he had political aspirations that were not to be ignored, but still he wanted to relate the story to some one (that wouldn't tell) and the opportunity was suddenly and unexpectedly thrust upon him. It acted as a lubricator on him and the reporter found great difficulty in keeping pace with the sentences as they rolled out in unchecked volume. He could not call a halt, it might recall the old fear and suddenly end the story.

It was therefore skip-along, bounce-along, catch-'em-as-you-can.

All this is thrown in by way of parenthesis, or as Senator Vance would say, "words to that effect."

But the story is being neglected. It ran on as follows:

"The weather was chilly and damp. The mountain rains had been falling at intervals during the day, and the sky was still o'er cast with dark and gloomy clouds. We boarded the train at 'The Gap' late in the evening. The prospect was not cheering, and certainly not brightened any by the unkind remark of a stranger sitting in my rear, who 'wondered if Mud Cut was going to fill as we passed.' It began to rain again—a cold, shivering rain, that cast a chill over me and made me long for something warmer. It was about dusk, and we were nearing the cut. I was just preparing for the inevitable when—a sudden lurch in the car threw me violently against a little man sitting next to me, who had a carpet-bag full of rocks in his lap; the jolting car would bump him against me and me against him, until it was a regular "Punch and Judy" business, and then a big nugget of copper fell out of that carpet-bag and lit on my corn—you see that toe there—well, don't say a word about it—the very thought makes me sick. About this time we came to a sudden and awful halt, and straight up in the air went the little man, the carpet-bag and myself. It was the most jarring time I have ever known. Confusion ensued. "A car off the track," was cried out, and a rush was made for the rear door. We looked out quick. Sure enough there stood a car detached from the train in a helpless condition, floundering about in the mud and mire. "Will no one flee to the rescue," feebly cried my little companion. No one responded. The truth is I weigh about two hundred pounds, but I didn't feel like tackling a reeling car turned loose in a muddy hollow, with the side of a mountain slowly moving down on it. There was a spontaneous rush for the front door, and in the jostling about the little man, with that everlasting carpet-bag, let drop another rock on that same toe. I felt the hot flashes all over me, and turned to embrace the little man, but he had escaped through the door, and was out in the mud all in a jiffy. I relented and followed more slowly. There we were, ten of us, out in the bleak, cold night, with the rain driving down on us, and the whistling wind sweeping through the cut like blasts from ice-land. The train had two excursion cars in our front; one of them was far in advance of the other, and was soon filled with those from the rear car. We applied to the conductor for entrance. He said it was packed full, and there was no chance. We suggested that he back-back and take up the car that was loosened and carry us to Henry, about three miles. No; he must stay and get the disabled car on its feet. All hands assisted awhile, but we only succeeded in laying the car along side the bank, and the slide from the mountain soon began to fall on it and it became impossible to budge it. It was left to the "solitude," etc., and was soon buried in the mud.

Not being able to induce the conductor to leave for Henry, we got very bold and then very mad, and then set out in the dark, through the rain and mire, and marched to that place, a distance of three miles. It was a rare occasion, you may depend. None of the passengers were injured, except in feeling, but not fatally, I hope. Those we left behind spent the night in the car, at the cut, and slept with their head on their fists. We slept comfortably at Henry, when we reached there!"

"That was a very pretty story, Colonel. But what is your unbiased opinion of Mud Cut?"

"I believe it will, if it hasn't already done so, break up travel over that route. It is going around by the Spartanburg route now and will continue to do so."

"Isn't it all fudge about Mud Cut being such a draw back to the road?"

"Not a bit of it."

"How can they remedy the trouble."

"By moving the track about one hundred yards."

"How much will that cost."

"About $50,000."

"Whew! How much has Mud Cut cost already?"

"About three or four times that amount."

"Incredible. You surely are joking."

"Not a bit of it."

"When will they reach Asheville?"

"By permission of Mud Cut, next summer—why they will not get through the tunnel before Xmas."

"What will be the cost of laying the road to Ducktown and Paint Rock?"

"Ah! that's the bifurcation at Asheville you have heard of. Well, let me see—60 miles—140 miles. It will cost, say $8,000,000 or $10,000,000."

"Enormous. I'm 'fraid it's 'tafty' you're giving me."

"Not a bit of it."

"When will they reach these points?"

"Never."

"What ——?"

The learned gentleman reached down and picked up that empty boot and drew back——the reporter leaked out——the door banged, something hit it ca-thump on the inside, and fell to the floor——.

THE UNITED STATES MAIL.

Contracts Signed for Carrying the Mails---Two Cases of Yellow Fever Reported.

ST. LOUIS, August 26.—The projected line of fast steamers to carry the mails to all river towns between here and New Orleans has so far advanced that contracts were signed to-day by John H. Baldwin and associates, owners of the line, with Billings, Powell & Company, of the American boundary, New Albany, Ind., for all machinery and boilers for vessels.

Contracts will also be closed this week for six hulls, cabins and outfits either with James Mack, of Cincinnati, or David Barmore, of Jeffersonville, Ind. The steamers to be competed and ready for business by the first of December next.

Two more mild cases of yellow fever were sent to the quarantine hospital to-day. Thos. Redington, from Memphis, and William Mulvey, Steward of the steamer John Means.

Destructive Fire in Richmond.

RICHMOND, Va., August 26.—At an early hour this morning a fire broke out in R. H. Whitlock's tobacco box manufactory, at the corner of 18th and Cary streets, and before the flames could be gotten under control, that extensive establishment, together with the large brick tobacco factory of Turpin & Brother, adjoining on the east, was totally destroyed. The row of frame houses on the south side of Cary street sustained some damage, as also did the brick tobacco factory of Jackson, Turpin & Co., on 18th street, west of the box factory. The building occupied by Turpin & Brother, which was destroyed, was well known as "Castle Thunder," and was used during the war as a prison house for both Federal and Confederate prisoners. The total loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000. The insurance will cover about half the loss.

Six deaths were reported since last night, Mrs. Minnie Wilkie, J. D. Stewart, Alexander Boyd, William Atwood, John Diersmann and James Hunt colored. F. D. Stewart was a well known school teacher. Alexander Boyd's death was quite sudden, he was taken ill Sunday, but his case was not reported to the Board of Health until after his death. He has long been in the employ of B. Lowenstein & Bros., prominent dry goods merchants. Weather clear and pleasant.

DE YOUNG vs. KALLOCH.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF THE LIVES OF THE TWO MEN.

De Young's own Story of his Career ---Light and Shades of Pacific Life ---Sketch of Kalloch.

"I was born in New Orleans," said Mr. De Young. "My parents soon afterward moved to Texas. My father died when I was a mere boy. I went to San Francisco in 1854 when I was 9 years old. Two years afterward I worked in a wire factory at $4 a week. Then I went to making cigar boxes, and jumped from that to an apprenticeship in a job printing office. I learned type-setting very quickly, and was soon foreman of the office. My first venture was a newspaper that I called the School Circle. It printed contributions from pupils in the public schools, and was in a small way a success. I had an uncongenial partner, however, and was glad to sell out to him. I again went to work in a job printing office, but was compelled to leave it because I was not old enough to become a member of the Typographical Union, and the office already had its allotted number of boys. You see I was only 16 years old at that time. I went to Sacramento and started a daily theatrical programme. It was distributed throughout the city in the daytime, and used as a programme in the theatre at night. I had a partner, who punctually collected dues from advertisers and others, but accounted for only money enough to pay the running expenses. We had a dispute about it. My partner, knowing that I had no money, fixed upon a small sum at which he would buy or sell. A manager of a theatre, hearing of the trouble, loaned me the money, and I became the sole owner of the sheet. At the end of the year I turned it into a newspaper, but after a month's trial was compelled to suspend publication without being engulphed in debt.

"Then I went to Virginia City. It was the heyday of the mining excitement. I could get nothing to do, and turned back to Carson City. There I set type on the Independent, worked some at bookbinding, and was finally made foreman of the newspaper department. The discharged foreman made two attempts to shoot me, but was restrained by the boys in the office. About this time I heard that they wanted a newspaper in Dayton, and I went down there and talked with Sutro, the tunnel man, about it. Dec. Barnes, a printer in Gold Hill, wanted to go in with me. Sutro went around to the stores with me, and we had about $1,300 subscribed, when Barnes got drunk and became involved in a row. To save his life I drew a revolver and went to his assistance. Barnes acted so disgracefully that the citizens of Dayton gave no further aid to the proposed newspaper enterprise, and I departed.

The next night I set type on the Enterprise in Virginia City. I had caught a terrible cold on my way back from Dayton. It settled in my eyes, and I did not fully recover my sight until my return to San Francisco in 1864. There I got credit for the use of room, type, press, and paper, and started a gratuitous theatrical paper, like the one I published in Sacramento. In the daytime I solicited advertisements, and at night, by the aid of one assistant, set the type. I worked five days to get the first edition ready for the press, and in the whole time slept not more than five hours, and that on the floor of the office on papers. I was exhausted by the strain. I had borrowed five dollars to live on during the week, and I bought plenty of strong, black coffee, and kept awake by drinking it. I was hardly able to feed the sheets on the press. But at the end of a week I was encouraged. The payment of bills by advertisers enabled me to pay the expenses, and the venture continued to prosper. Very soon I was enabled to employ an editor, who wrote sharp, spicy, satirical paragraphs on events of the day. That caused the Chronicle to be sought after, especially as it was given away. We made the criticisms honest and independent, so that our verdict made or unmade plays and actors so far as success in San Francisco was concerned. Not only that, but we competed with the regular newspapers very often in the matter of news. The dramatic and musical editor was re-enforced by another clever writer, and our reading matter was as original as though it wasn't given away. In about a year my younger brother entered the concern, as a carrier at first, and to his business talent—superior to mine—much of the success of the Chronicle is due. We soon purchased our own material and laid aside the profits, for the profits became $1,000 a month without a cent from circulation. Our plan, however, was to enlarge the Chronicle and make it a regular newspaper. We did so on September 1, 1868. I don't know that we deserved the immediate success we attained; we tried to, at least. It was a week before we could get in all the advertisements that were offered.

"We cover everything on the Pacific Coast. We have had twenty libel suits without losing one, our defence invariably being the truth and a good motive. We called a man a desperado, and proved him a robber; we accused another of fraud, and convicted him of blackmailing. We have had numerous personal encounters. A bullet from a derringer has grazed my scalp. But it has become known that we can defend ourselves, and we are now let alone."

THE REV. MR. KALLOCH'S CAREER.

The Rev. I. S. Kalloch was born in Rockland, Me., where his father was a clergyman and where he also preached for a time after completing his studies. At the age of 27 he received a call to go to Boston as pastor of the Baptist Society, which worshiped in Tremont Temple, and soon became notorious as a sensational preacher, noted for the plainness and boldness of his language. He drew crowded congregations, and became the idol, especially of the women in his flock. Early in 1857, however, stories began to be circulated about his doubtful attentions to certain of the ladies belonging to his congregation, but the trustees, after an investigation, declared their belief in his innocence. But he was soon indicted for adultery, and after a trial that attracted considerable attention the jury disagreed, though public opinion held him guilty. Mr. Kalloch's church and congregation stood by him, but his usefulness was undoubtedly impaired in Boston. He subsequently accepted a call to the Laight Street Baptist Church, of New York, but soon found that his success as a clergyman was impossible. He then drifted out to Kansas, where he bought a farm and went into the business of stock-raising, his thoroughbreds soon becoming famous at all the county fairs. He also dipped into politics; was elected to the Legislature, and once got a number of votes for United States Senator. The hard times made him poor, and about three years ago he professed to have been reconverted, for he had fallen into bad habits in Kansas, and took to preaching again. A couple of years ago he went out to California, where he soon received a call to preach. When the Workingmen's movement started he went into politics again, and became its candidate for Mayor of San Francisco.

FALL FASHIONS.

The Very Latest Styles for the Ladies to Wear During the Coming Season.

Philadelphia Times, August 25th.

The winter dresses are going to be superb; most stately conceptions of stand alone silk and brocaded, embossed or plain velvet. Even for early fall wear velvet will enter large into the combination costumes, together with camel's heir, cashmere, poplin and silk. Velveteens, too, have been most extensively imported, and these goods, as well as velvets, come in as many as forty new colors or shades. In such tints as brown, myrtle, bronze, slate, blue and reseda, are three gradations of hues—light, medium and dark; then we find such novelties as grenat, new cardinal, sulphur, petunia, mauve, claret, Sultan, ruby, ponceane, peacock, lava, pleasant, giraffe and panther, very light, and exceedingly dark tints are placed side by side, in so striking a manner as to attract attention to the fact that the summer tendency to effect such combinations has been decidedly emphasized.

Camel's hair is not by any means reduced in price, the decided novelties in silk and hair costing from $3 to $8 a yard, and do not vary materially from those of the past, except in defined colorings, which instead of blending is rather more evident in lines and irregular figures. A rich camel's hair, with velvet finish, is pretty but will be easily defaced, as the uncut loops catch in every rough surface.

The standard poplin, which once was as popular and almost as high-priced as first-class silks, comes again, but in softer qualities, quite as silky and rich in appearence, but more easily and gracefully draped, fall in exquisite folds, and beautifully combining with the new silk velvets, which are light and flexible, as well as with the embroidered bands of silk or the faille itself. The fancy for Eastern or Oriental creations has not yet been satisfied and specimens are shown of marvelous beauty; silks and velvets, shot with gold and silver, or embroidered with gems and garnitured with fringe of the gold and silver, headed by hands after the designs in the fabric. Chinese designs are much used on the embossed hands in high or positive colorings, to trim, self-tinted fabrics, as, example, a morning costume of cream challis is decorated with a rich trimming of embossed band, in Japanese designs, in purple, yellow and red, which come together in clashes or lines, like the colors on the nations ware of Japan and China, without the slightest gradation or blending of shades.

NOTICEABLE COSTUMES.

An odd conceit is called the "peacock habit." This is made of heavy gros grain silk in a dark, rich shade of peacock green, combined with gold-colored satin and an embroidery in representation of peacock feathers. The skirt proper, which is really intended for walking purposes, escapes touching the ground by two inches in front. The edge is finished with four or five gathered ruffles of the green silk, interlined with narrow ruffles of satin, and rows of the peacock embroidery. The panier is rather more elaborately puffed, but after the same design, and the basque is quite plain, of green silk only, decorated with bands of the peacock embroidery corded with yellow satin and buttons, hand-painted, to represent the eye of the gay feathers. The stockings are embroidered to match, and the dark green gloves are stitched on back of hands and around wrists with the golden-colored silk. The bonnet is in princess shape, full and large embroidered crown, with brim of green velvet, the shade of the silk, the velvet also passed in folds about the crown, and holds in place green ostrich plumes with golden tips and a few short feathers of the gay-colored peacock.

A new evening robe is too lovely for description. It is a most exquisite combination of moonlight blue silk, white velvet and a brocaded fabric is the two colors, trimmed with silver fringe and looped with garlands and sprays of most delicate buds and blossoms.

Still another novelty is a costume of lava-colored silk, trained skirt, trimmed from the waist line down to near the skirt edge with Vandykes of embossed silk, a light shade, with richly-colored figures, finished with plaited fans of silk, edged with revers of embroidery and held in place by lava bows. The bodice is Pompadour at the neck and deeply pointed in waist, back and front, and finished with point lace.

HATS, BONNETS, &C.

In hats and bonnets, too, distinctions must be made, for it is pronounced "vulgar" for a small-faced lady to wear an outre or large head covering—hence buyers will find in wholesale houses a great diversity of shapes and styles, suiting every kind of face and capability of being fashionable, for it must be remembered that there are but few women in America who cannot be stylishly made up by an accomplished artist. So take courage, sisters, and don't hesitate to pay a "real" artist forty or fifty dollars more than the prices charged for a costume, to give you the benefit of his or her taste in selecting, designing and adapting the garments composing the entire outfit. You will not regret your money, and neither will your husband if he is a man of taste, and most men are, you know.

THE DIXON FAMILY.

A Letter from General Grant to A. W. Randall.

The following letter was given by ex-President Grant to Mrs. Dixon, mother of Henry Dixon, lately assassinated in Mississippi, from which it will be seen that the father of Henry was one of the Union men of Virginia. Clarence P. Dixon, a young son of Mrs. Dixon, now holds an appointment in the Treasury Department, he being appointed on the presentation of the original letter, a certified copy of which is now on file in the department, with other testimonials:

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 4, 1866.—Hon. A. W. Randall, Postmaster General:—Dear Sir: Permit me to recommend as a most worthy lady for employment in the postoffice department, Mrs. Dixon, of Virginia, now a resident of this city. Mrs. Dixon is the widow of a loyal Virginian, who was driven out of the State at the beginning of the rebellion on account of his loyalty. He took service in the Union army as paymaster and continued in it until the close of hostilities. Last year he was murdered by a Virginia ex-rebel officer, leaving a widow and eight children, who found their homes so unpleasant for them, even dangerous, that I sent government teams to move them to this city. They are dependent for a support upon what they can earn. I regard this as a very deserving case, and shall feel glad if suitable employment can be given to Mrs. Dixon.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
U. S. GRANT, General.

A LOST STATE.

THE RISE AND FALL OF THE STATE OF FRANKLIN.

History of the Commonwealth That Preceded the State of Tennessee---North Carolina Convention

Cincinnati Commercial.

Everybody knows that there are thirty-eight States and that originally there were thirteen colonies, and most people can repeat the names of these States and colonies as glibly as their alphabet; but we venture to say that very few have ever heard of a State called the State of Franklin. And yet history recognizes the existence of such a State, and one that in its day enjoyed no small degree of celebrity.

It is well known that after the revolution most of the original thirteen States claimed jurisdiction among themselves over the territory stretching indefinitely to the westward. The separate jurisdiction of each State was ill defined, and to avoid all trouble, to give the general government what seemed its due, and to assist it in throwing off the debt incurred by the war of independence, the Congress of the Confederation requested the various States to cede their claims to the general government. The matter was not definitely settled until after the adoption of the constitution; but the State of North Carolina attempted to cede, in compliance with the request of Congress, its western lands, which now form the State of Tennessee; and it was this attempt at cession which brought about the complications that shortly afterward resulted in the brief existence of the State of Franklin.

North Carolina ceded, but Congress, vacilating and vigorless, hesitated about accepting the cession. Having made the cession, North Carolina gave up all interest in her border settlements, and Congress refused to accept the charge which North Carolina had thrown off. The consequences were serious for the fortunes and happiness of the Tennessee settlers. Their borders were overrun with criminals and fugitives from justice, such as always infest a pioneer community, and yet the action of the mother State left them without courts to assert justice and inflict punishment. They had at all times to be on their guard against marauding bands of Indians, and yet they were without a regularly constituted militia for the defense. They were, in fact, cast-offs, and did what one would naturally expect them to do under the circumstances. The three northeastern counties of the Territory—Washington, Greene and Sullivan—lying in the northern part of what is now Eastern Tenessee, then the only well-settled portion of the State, met in convention at Jonesboro, Washington county, in August, 1784, and after a long discussion, in which the Declaration of Independence was read and cited as a fit example for them to follow, they declared themselves independent of North Carolina. After a variety of fortunes the little State was organized, and, in honor of Benjamin Franklin, was called the State of Franklin.

The State capital (Greenville) was a hamlet of perhaps a dozen log buildings. Probably it contained a store. We know that it had a tavern and court-house. What the general character of the buildings was may be inferred from a description of the court-house, in which the Legislature of the State of Franklin was wont to assemble. It was built of unhewn logs, and had neither floors nor windows. Between the logs were a few cracks where the logs fitted badly, and these, it was thought, would serve well enough for ventiliation and light. It is almost unnecessary to say that the State had no printing press, and the only knowledge which the freeman of Franklin got of the laws of his government was through common report and their annual promulgation on the militia field or from the steps of the court-house.

The chief interest which the State of Franklin has for us to-day comes from two or three striking characters which its history brought into prominence. The principal of these, John Sevier a Virginian by birth, but a Huguenot by decent, is one of the noteworthy characters in the annals of Tennessee.

Sevier was the foremost man in all the councils and enterprises of the men who afterward formed the State of Franklin. He was the commander of the Tennessee Riflemen at King's Mountain, and was chosen as the first Governor, and continued to be the only Governor of the State of Franklin.

Sevier fought hard for the State, but after the first year of its existence the fight a losing one, for North Carolina, after the first abandonment of her offspring, suddenly turned about and re-asserted her jurisdiction. She had all the power, and had the communication between the two States been easy, and had she asserted her rights with vigor and promptness, the revolt of the western counties would have been crushed in its incipiency; but the fact that these two conditions were entirely wanting necessarily made the policy of North Carolina a "waiting" one, and this policy, assisted by feuds and divisions in the State of Franklin, made a peaceful and bloodless settlement of difficulty possible.

Major John Tipton seems to have been as unlike Sevier as it is possible for two men to be. He had none of Sevier's suavity of manner; he was brusque and uncompromising—a man to whom it was impossible to endure a rival, who aspired to leadership, and who was jealous of all who contended for it with him. This man had supported the State of Franklin in its early days, but afterward, probably because he saw that Sevier's influence was likely to overshadow his own, threw the whole weight of his influence in favor of a return to the jurisdiction of North Carolina.

So rapidly did the fabric of the new State perish that three years after its establishment, in the words of a recent writer upon the subject, "no Legislature at all could be assembled, and it was one of the duties of the Legislature to elect the council, and as the Legislature at its last session had failed to do this, the council was soon a thing of the past. To complete this catalogue of misfortunes, Judge Campbell, the head of the judiciary, accepted office under the government of North Carolina. Governor Sevier was left alone in his official dignity. Even this sole relic of the Franklin government would not, in the natural course of events, remain long except from the general wreck, for the Governor's term expired on March 1, 1788, and it being a constitutional function of the Legislature to elect the Governor, and there being no Legislature to perform this duty, it followed inevitably that after March 1, 1788, there would be no Governor of the State of Franklin."

Such were the facts and the State of Franklin thus ended, but its closing days were marked by the culmination of the rivalry between Tipton and Sevier in an open encounter between the two and their respective forces. During a temporary absence of Sevier on the frontier Tipton had confined in his house certain slaves taken from Sevier's homestead by legal process. On hearing this Sevier marched with 150 men to Tipton's house, and for three days laid siege to it. Tipton had a few men with him, and when Sevier called upon him to surrender he replied that Sevier might "fire and be damned." Neither, however, made a direct attack upon the other, Tipton not doing so on account of inferiority of force, and Sevier because he was at heart a peaceful man, and did not wish to cause useless bloodshed. At length, on the morning of the fourth day, a detachment from Sullivan county came to Tipton's assistance. The morning was bitter cold, snow was falling, and Sevier's scouts had all come into camp to warm themselves. Seeing the state of affairs the Sullivan militia moved cautiously up, and when close enough "raised a shout which seemed to rend the heavens," and the besieged, headed by Tipton, also rushing out, a panic seized Sevier's men and they fled in every direction.

Sevier met with no more trouble from either State or local authorities. He returned home, and although for a time suffering from political disabilities, he finally became Governor of Tennessee and for many years served in the House of Representatives at Washington.

FORSYTHE.

WINSTON, August 25.—The weather is warm and showery. The reports from the country are very favorable, and if nothing unfavorable happens, there will be a splendid corn crop this year.

A lot of tobacco was seized in Stokes county, and sold at the revenue office Saturday. Mr. C. Hamlen bought most of it at 16½ cents per lb. Horses and wagons were also sold at low figures.

Mr. Joyner has let out contracts for two fine dwellings to be built at once, and several others are preparing to erect fine houses. So we see the spirit of enterprise is alive among our people. Our merchant are getting in new goods every week, and nearly every store in town is occupied, while visitors are looking out for places to rent for the purpose of moving here. We extend a hearty welcome to all wide-awake energetic capitalist, and offer them a splendid field.

Second-Class Mail Matter.

It seems not to be generally known, that in the classification of mail matter the postoffice department designates letters, postal cards and sealed packages as first-class; publications mailed from the office of publication, second-class; all other printed matter, and some matter that is partly printed and partly in writing, third-class; and all matter not included in the other three classes, fourth-class.

Taxes.

Since the decision of the Supreme Court in regard to the School Bill the NEWS is enabled to let the people of Wake know about their State, county and township taxes, as follows:

State tax on $100 valuation,	24 cents.
County tax on $100 valuation,	32½ "
County school tax on $100 valuation (levied by State, but paid to county treasurer)	8½ "
Township (Raleigh) tax on valuation,	10 "
	75 "
Tax on $100 in Raleigh township in balance of county,	65 "
State tax on poll,	72 "
County tax on poll,	98 "
County school tax on poll (levied by State, but paid to county treasurer)	25 "
Township (Raleigh) tax on poll,	39 "
Tax on poll in Raleigh township,	$2.27 "
In balance of county,	1.95 "

It will be seen that the county did not levy up to the extent of the constitutional limitation, one and two-third cents on property, and its equation of five cents on the poll, being left off.

HONOR THE BRAVE.

A VOICE FROM THE PEOPLE CALLS FOR JUSTICE.

An Eye Witness of the Beaufort Disaster Calls over a Few of the Unnamed Heroes.

WILSON, N. C., August 25.—I have read the account of the late storm at Beaufort in several papers, and all of them ascribe all majesty to Hon. J. J. Davis, Governor Jarvis, G. W. Blacknall and others; big men for invaluable assistance rendered during the storm. That is well enough, but not in one instance have I seen the names of the real hard workers mentioned. This is not justice. No doubt the above named gentlemen rendered invaluable assistance after the storm, in the recovery of property, etc., but I don't recollect seeing either one during the storm.

It is very likely they saved their families, or with the assistance of some person, as yet incog., did so. But there were men there who had no families, and these men did the work, and should not be entirely ignored in mentioning it.

All thanks should be given Governor Jarvis and party, for their aid and assistance, after the persons were left helpless and almost naked on the shore. But had it not been for others they would have never reached the shore. The men who should be praised for their heroic daring and hard work are: The clerks of the Atlantic, Messrs. Stevenson, of Kinston, and Manson, of Beaufort, Mr. B. L. Perry, proprietor of the house, Mr. Roberts of New Berne, Thos. McKoy, of Wilmington, a colored man named Jim ——, the senior proprietor of the shooting gallery of the Atlantic Hotel, and two or three others.

God bless the people of Beaufort. They will never be forgotten for their kindness to the sufferers, and the officers of the Atlantic Railroad who so generously passed them free over that road. I don't write this with the wish to detract from the honors that should be bestowed on Governor Jarvis and party, but that those honors may be more equitably distributed. You may depend upon the authenticity of this, as I was an eye-witness and a fellow-sufferer.

LATE NEWS NOTES.

The prospects for a union depot in Charlotte are better now than at any time since the negotiations on this subject began.

A meeting of Cubans was held in New York yesterday, in Liberty Hall, to take steps toward extending aid to the revolutionary committee of Cuba.

Thirty-nine box cars have been turned out of the shops of the North Carolina Railroad Company during the past year, and the work is as good as any that comes from the north.

The Turkish Government is supporting half a million Musselman fugitives, as well as the army, and the minister of finance declines to be held responsible. The army is to be reduced as soon as the great boundary question is settled.

The Memphis Appeal says: "Notwithstanding the fever, marriage licenses are procured as usual. But few white people engage in matrimony these times in Memphis, but the colored people are not to be frightened so easily from uniting in wedlock for better or for worse."

San Francisco is convulsed to its center because a lady, member of the board of school examination raised the credit marks of Miss Ida May Hester, daughter of the president of the board of education, giving her a standing to which, it is alleged, her scholarship did not entitle her.

The discovery just brought conspicuously to light by the Herald that the harbor of New York is unsafe for ocean navigation, and the conclusive data accompanying the exposure of the fact, has excited a deeper and more widespread interest than any other commercial problem discussed for the past few years. The evidence seems to be overwhelming that the harbor is shoaling rapidly, the channels closing up and bars forming, and that the most stringent laws are needed to suppress the evil. The fact that New York depends for her commercial greatness on her splendid bay and harbor makes the subject one of national importance.

Mr. Henry H. Smith, clerk of the House committee on rules, which recently held sessions at Long Branch to revise the rules of the House, says that all the published reports concerning the action of the committee are premature and inaccurate. He admits, though, that the committee decided upon sweeping changes, and will meet again in this city in November to further perfect their work.

An International Convention of Hebrews from all portions of the world will be held at Paris, September 10th, under the auspices of the Alliance Israelite Universelle. Matters affecting the interests of the whole Hebrew race will be discussed. Delegates have been appointed from ten countries, Rev. Myer Stern, Wm. Seligman and Simon Wolff being the delegates from the United States. Among the subjects to be discussed are the amelioration of the Hebrews in Palestine, and the promotion of emigration to that country; the promotion of Hebrew literature and education, and the persecution of Hebrews in Roumania and elsewhere.

DAILY NEWS

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

WEDNESDAY, - AUGUST 27, 1879.

THE Durham Plant, utters the sentiment of its level-headed editor as follows:

The men who are now parading themselves before the public seeking office, will not be heard of when the convention meets in 1880.

The above express the sentiment of nine-tenths of the voting population of North Carolina as will be demonstrated practically in the case of a few who already come within the range of the above paragraph.

NEW YORK city now has 330 miles of paved streets, containing 7,633,000 square yards of paving, divided by the department of city works as follows: Stone block pavements, 4,835,000 yards; cobble-stone pavements, 1,714,000 yards; macadam pavements, 890,000 yards; wood and concrete pavements, 200,000 yards. Cobble-stone, wooden and concrete pavements are declared unfit for the streets, and it is recommended that they should be replaced as rapidly as possible.

QUARANTINE is not popular in Japan, it seems. The Asiatic cholera is prevailing in a number of Japanese ports, and the government, in trying to prevent the spread of this dread disease, established a quarantine against these infected places. The vessels of foreign powers, however, appear to pay no attention whatever to this quarantine, the United States vessels being the only ones which observe it. A short time since the German ship Hespina, at the suggestion of the German government, broke this quarantine, and it may, therefore, be considered at an end for all practical purposes.

THE Georgia negroes are doing as well as those of any other State in the Union. They have schools, a college supported by the State, and own an unusually large amount of real estate. Notwithstanding these facts, the Kansas fever has taken firmer root in Georgia than anywhere else in the South. The Courier-Journal is convinced that several thousand negroes will leave that State as soon as the cotton picking season is over and they have money to pay their way. There are no signs of agents in this scheme, the Courier-Journal says, but the exodus is preached from the pulpits by Georgia negro preachers. It does not anticipate that, even if these negroes go, there will be any scarcity of labor in the State.

BULGARIA promises to become an interesting country in the world of politics. For five hundred years it has been ground down by the Turks; has been without government and without law. Less than a year ago it was granted autonomy, and its notables met and framed a constitution. The first Bulgarian assembly will meet in a short time, and it is said its first work will be the impeachment and trial of the first minister of the country for a violation of its brand new constitution. This is good work, and will doubtless precipitate a ministerial crisis. It is not often that a government begins with an impeachment. It generally wants to establish peace and order first. With Bulgaria, however, it is different. Like Minerva, it springs full-fledged into life, ready for anything.

THE shipment of American stock and farm products to England is now a question of far greater importance to that power than the Turkish frontier or the Zulu war. It means the inevitable ruin of English agriculture, the pauperization of a large portion of the English people and the possible decay and ruin of that country. It is only during the past few years that this question has forced itself into prominence, and it is growing daily a more serious question to English interests. Two members of Parliament, leading political economists, will visit the United States shortly to investigate our crops and how large an amount of food products we will be able to ship abroad. A regular series of investigations of the kind will be made, so that the British farmers can see what is before them. It is further hinted that this question will attract the attention of Parliament at an early date, and an endeavor made to grant some relief to the English landlords and farm hands.

WE are glad to see that even the Memphis papers are convinced that we have no fever here and no chance of an epidemic. They were somewhat slow and loath to admit this. The unhappy situation of Memphis made them suspicious. When they saw the fever invading their own city, it was impossible to persuade them that the other towns which suffered in 1878 would not receive a similar visitation. They confidently predicted an epidemic for New Orleans, and insisted that our authorities were concealing the facts and not reporting the fever that already prevailed here. Now, however, they have given up this talk. The Avalanche of Wednesday admits the total absence of any chance of the fever in this city, and congratulates New Orleans on its happy escape. The whole world, indeed, is satisfied of our proper sanitary condition, of the general good health of this city and the absence of all possibility of an epidemic here, except one little sandy island on the Gulf coast, which bears the name of Galveston.

THE SCHOOL BILL CASE.

The Supreme Court on yesterday announced their decision, declining to order the Speakers to sign the School Bill. The court filed no opinion at this term, giving their reasons for the decision. Their departure from the uniform custom of the court, in this respect, is to be regretted, but we presume it was based upon sufficient cause.

The court, we learn, in announcing their opinion gave verbally as a reason for refusing to issue the mandamus that it was unwilling to co-erce a co-ordinate branch of the Government, to-wit: the two Speakers. The court also intimated, we are told, that the bill should be signed in the presence of the two houses, but as it is in evidence that quite one-half of the acts of the last legislature were signed by these Speakers not in the presence of the two houses, we take it that this was a mere intimation of what the court thought becoming and proper, and not a reversal of its principle, just enunciated, of not controlling the action of the Speakers in anywise. Besides this would be to invalidate half the acts of the last session, at a blow.

For the decision of our court of last resort, and for the occupants of its bench, the NEWS, in common with all North Carolinians, has the profoundest respect.

We regret that we can not give our support to the action, in this matter, of their co-ordinate "Department" (so-called)—the two Speakers, Messrs. Moring and Robinson.

The signatures of these gentlemen were conspicuously placed to all acts levying taxes upon the property and labor of North Carolina to add to the coffers of wealthy railroad corporations. It is only from a bill to educate the children of the toiling masses that they have with-held their signatures.

So far as the courts are concerned, the school bill matter is closed. The children of the people in school-less North Carolina must go two years more without any added light, to dispel their ignorance, notwithstanding the Legislature unanimously adopted it.

With Messrs. Moring and Robinson must abide the proud satisfaction of knowing that by their neglect to sign the School Bill, aided by their persistence in resorting to legal proceedings, to avoid following the opinion of the Attorney General and the judgment of Judge Eure that they should sign the bill, they have at last nullified the action of the Legislature and the popular demand for education.

THE tax-payers of London are thinking of investigating their municipal expenses. The corporation of London has been giving some very costly dinners lately at the expense of the tax-payers. The dinner given to the Prince of Wales, on his return from India, cost no less than $165,000. In 1872 the corporation of London gave dinners to the King of Belgium, the Sultan, the Khedive and the Shah of Persia at a cost of $331,980. This is a pretty sum to spend for mock-turtle soup and roast beef, the Loudon tax-payers complain, and they want their aldermen restricted to $100,000 per year for these grand municipal feasts.

Digest of the Supreme Court Opinions, June and July Term, 1879.

[Reported for the News by Walter Clark Esq., Attorney at Law.]

BY SMITH, C. J.:

104. Bell vs. Cunningham, from Macon.

Where a judgment was obtained subsequent to the discharge of the defendant in bankruptcy, but he did not plead the discharge and frequently thereafter promised to pay such judgment, it is too late to plead the discharge in bar to a motion made for leave to issue execution after the judgment has become dormant.

BY SMITH, C. J.:

105. Brickell vs. Commissioners of Halifax, from Halifax.

County bonds issued during the war for the purchase of salt for the destitute are illegal, being in aid of the Confederacy. Leak vs. Commissioners of Richmond, 64 N. C., 134, cited and approved.

BY SMITH, C. J.:

106. Simmons vs. Foscue, from Jones.

Where one of three Commissioners appointed to make partition of real estate withdrew and the other two commissioners appointed a substitute without objection from either party, and he co-operated in executing the partition, the parties being present, it is too late, after such acquiescence, to object to the third commissioner after the report is filed. Besides the report would have been valid if signed by only two of the Commissioners. Upon the evidence sent up in the appeal, the Court holds the partition to have been fair and equitable.

BY SMITH, C. J.:

107. Fobes vs. Branson, from Wake.

A seller of goods is answerable for the reasonable consequences of representations made by his agent, but not for their special effect on the purchaser's mind. The jury are to draw their own conclusion as to the purport of the representations from the evidence. Where there is a misunderstanding as to the terms of the contract, the purchaser should have promptly notified the seller of the goods, on their arrival, of his refusal to take them and failing to do this, he is liable.

BY SMITH, C. J.:

108. Isler vs. Koonce, from Jones.

Where under a proceeding against a trustee in a trust deed to secure debts, a foreclosure is ordered, the purchaser at the sale acquires the estate, though the trustor (or his heirs or personal representative, if he be dead) is not made a party. The failure to make them parties to the foreclosure suit may give them a right to require a re-sale and an appropriation to them of the surplus, but it interposes no obstacle to an action brought by the purchaser for possession.

BY SMITH, C. J.:

109. Patton vs. Shipman, from Henderson.

Previous to the present constitution, the Superior Court had jurisdiction when the sum sued for, principal and interest, amounted to $100. Where an action for a sum less than $200, was pending in the Superior Court upon the adoption of the present constitution, it was properly transferred to the new Superior Court.

BY ASHE, J.:

110. Davis vs. Moss, from Wilson.

Petition to rehear same case, 80 N. C. 141. The former decision reversed on the ground that the attention of the court was not called on the previous argument to sec. 366 C. C. P., and the cause dismissed, it not having been brought as a Quo Warranto by the Attorney General in the name of the People on relation of the claimant.

BY ASHE, J.:

111. Henly vs. Wilson, from Chatham.

An instruction of the judge below, that a devise of "all my land on both sides of Haw river, in Chatham county, together with mills and appurtenances, being the property known as the McClanahan mills" was color of title in the devisee, provided the jury should find that the tract was well known by such name, its metes and bounds all ascertained and the land had been in the actual adverse possession of the devisee and those claiming under him, up to those boundaries, for seven years, excluding the time during which the statute of limitations was suspended, was sufficient. A finding of the jury under such instructions that the plaintiff held under color of title was equivalent to finding that the name set out in the will was well known, &c. The name of a place, if well known, with settled metes and bounds, is of itself a sufficient identification. Indeed the phrase "all my land on Haw river," it not appearing that the devisor had any other land there, would have been sufficient. Where the flooding of the plaintiff's mill wheel, caused by the defendant, is aggravated by acts of the plaintiff, it does not excuse the wrongful act of the defendant, though it mitigates the amount of damages.

BY ASHE, J.:

112. Molyneux vs. Huey, from Henderson.

Where by agreement between the obligor on notes secured by a trust deed and the obligee, a judgment was entered by the trustee acting as attorney for both parties, upon certain of the notes, the defendant not making his defense, upon stipulations by the plaintiff which have been since broken, evidence of the conversation and transaction in regard thereto between either party and the trustee now deceased, is admissible. Howard vs. Latimer, 68 N. C. 370, cited and approved. A motion to set aside a judgment taken under these circumstances does not fall under C. C. P. 133, and can be granted after the lapse of a year. The fact that the same person acted as attorney for both plaintiff and defendant also vitiates the judgment. Where a judgment was signed out of court, and after its being filed in the clerk's office, a party takes it to the judge and obtains time to appeal, without objecting to the signing out of court, he thereby waives his right to make such objection.

BY DILLARD, J.:

113. Brown vs. Kinsey, from Jones.

The continuance of criminal intercourse after the execution of a bond, or contract, impeached for immorality, does not invalidate the same, but such bond, or contract, can only be avoided on proof that it was executed in whole, or in part, on the understanding that the connection was to continue. Where there was proof merely of the execution of the bond during the course of an illegal connection, which continued afterwards, and of the admission by the obligee that the bond was not given for any debt due her, the evidence was too slight to warrant the jury in finding the immoral consideration, and the court below properly excluded it.

BY DILLARD, J.:

114. Lewis vs. Rountree, from Wake.

Petition to rehear same case, 78 N. C., 323, and former opinion strongly reaffirmed.

BY DILLARD, J.:

115. Gully vs. Macy, from Wake.

The Probate Court has no jurisdiction to declare and enforce a trust. That court has power, upon a motion in the cause, to set aside a sale made under its decree but not to adjudge a trust ex delicto against the purchaser with notice, of the land. A married woman cannot be sued without joining her husband, except where the action is between the woman and her husband. Where a guardian ad litem is appointed before a petition to sell land is filed, is selected by the plaintiff in the action, has no acquaintance with his wards, accepts service of the petition and puts in his answer without enquiry as to the interests of his wards, there is no defense made in the eye of the law, and the purchaser under such irregular proceedings takes subject to the risk of having the sale set aside.

BY SMITH, C. J.:

116. Bell vs. Adams, from Wake.

Declarations of a person in possession of land are not admissible to show changes in the title of those for whom he holds. Co-tenants, not under disability, are barred by the sole possession of one tenant, and their own exclusion from all participation in the rents and profits, for twenty years. In the case of a divided estate, held by different persons in one share, to make a partition effectual, both the life estate and the reversion or remainder, should be represented by parties before the court. Where a party undertakes to convey by a deed with full warranty an absolute estate in an entire lot, the effect is to convey not only the share he then possesses, but by way of rebutter any other share which may be cast by descent upon him or his heirs at law.

FINIS.

Oliver Asks For More.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Money! money! is the cry the Maine Republicans are hurling at the Republican campaign committee at Wasington. Several hundred thousand dollars have been sent them, and still "Oliver asks for more," and the poor department clerks are bled continuously. The Republican campaign committee have had to furnish most of the cash demanded by Casanave, the Returning Board robber, also.

And The End is Not Yet.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Secretary Sherman is reported as being furious at Casanave because he exposed a section of the judgment day, just as John was about to leave for his stumping tour in Ohio. John Sherman's chickens are constantly coming home to roost, and the end of that business is not yet.

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side, sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. The genuine DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Talbott's Patent Spark Arrester.

THE INVENTION OF THE AGE.

Talbott's new Patent Spark Arrester is really the only perfect and reliable one, and is superseding all others in use. The great efficiency of this Arrester is attracting universal attention, and is being endorsed by the best mechanical engineers and insurance companies. Its prominent features are:

It does not destroy the draft.

It does not interfere with cleaning the tubes.

It will not choke up, and requires no cleaning.

It requires no direct dampers to be opened when raising steam (dampers being objectionable, as they may be left open and allow sparks to escape.)

It requires no water to extinguish sparks, which, by condensation, destroys the draft. Besides, when water is used, if neglected, the efficiency is destroyed by evaporation of the water, and the boiler is kept in a filthy condition.

It is simple and durable, and can be relied upon.

It can be attached to any boiler.

No planter should be without one of them. Insurance companies will insure gins and barns where the Talbott Engines and Spark Arresters are used at same rate as harged for water or horse-power.

GRANT OUT OF THE WAY.

Some Rather Important Information from George W. Childs.

Washington Post, 25th.

A rumor being current that, in a recent intarview with Colonel John B. Brownlow, Mr. George Washington Childs had delivered an effective obituary over the Grant boom, a reporter hunted up the Colonel last Sunday night, and catechised him. "You have just now the reputation of holding information regarding Grant's candidacy; will you give it to the public?"

"Well, I had a long talk with the General's most intimate friend, about four or five weeks since, and he expressed himself very earnestly on the matter. He assured me that Gen. Grant was not a candidate, ought not to be one, and that he, as his friend, was opposed to his being so regarded under any circumstances. I am bound to believe that Mr. Childs knew what he was talking about, as he is known to be nearer to Gen. Grant than anybody else. You may, therefore, depend upon it that General Grant is out of the contest."

"What else passed, and who commenced the subject of Grant's candidacy?"

"Mr. Childs asked me who the Republicans of Tennessee were for, and on my replying for Grant or Sherman, he volunteered the above statement in substance, remarking at the same time that he had received a letter from Grant only the day before. He also showed me the presents the latter had received in Europe, the gold casket containing the freedoms of the cities of London and Glasgow, etc."

"Did you have any conversation with him as to Grant's probable movements on his return?"

"Yes, he told me that the General had asked him to go to San Francisco to meet him, and that they would live together in Philadelphia."

"Do you mean Grant would take up his permanent residence with Mr. Childs?"

"Yes; I have Mr. Childs' word for it that this is the plan at present."

"What reasons did Mr. Childs give for his desire that Grant should not run?"

"He said that the latter has money enough to live on without the salary, and could remain the first of American citizens if he did not run, and though he was of the opinion that he would be elected, it would hurt his prestige with the people, among whom he could wield more influence as he is than as President. The mud throwing incident to a contest, which would be the bitterest that ever took place, would, he thought, permanently besmirch the General."

"What you have given me is about all that took place, is it?"

"Yes; and Mr. Childs cannot deny it. If he does I will come out in a card giving the exact words which passed. The relations of myself and family with the gentleman are very friendly, he having published my father's book on the war. The conversation took place in the Ledger office, and was quite lengthy, Mr. Childs entering fully into the question of who should be the candidate of the Republicans and giving his reasons."

"Who is his choice?"

"John Sherman, first and last."

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Infallibly Cure all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Scaly Eruptions, Itchings, and Irritations

The testimonials of permanent cures of Skin and scalp Diseases which have been the torture of a lifetime by the Cuticura Remedies, are more wonderful than any methods or remedies known to the medical profession.

Cuticura Resolvent, a powerful Blood Purifier, is the only purifying agent which finds its way into the circulating fluid and thence through the oil and sweat glands to the surface of the skin, thus destroying the poisonous elements with which these vessels have been daily charged.

Cuticura, The Great Skin Cure, applied externally, arrests all unnatural or morbid growth which cover the surface of the diseased glands and tubes with Scaly, Itching, and Irritating Humors, speedily it removes them, leaving the pores open, healthy, and free from diseased particles of matter.

Thus internally and externally do these great remedies act in co junction, performing cures that have astonished the most noted physicians of the day.

Salt Rheum for 30 Years

On the Head, Face, and Greater Part of the Body, Cured.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen, I have been a great sufferer with Salt Rheum for 30 years, commencing in my head and face and extending over the greater part of my body. I have taken gallons of medicines for the blood of different kinds and tried good physicians, all of which did me no good, and I came to the conclusion that I could not be cured. But a friend called my attention to an article in the Union on skin diseases, and I got a box of Cuticura. The first application was a great relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used three 50-cent boxes and my skin is smooth and I consider myself entirely cured. Hoping that this may be seen by some one afflicted as I have been (if there is any) is my earnest wish. And I cheerfully recommend it to all persons afflicted with like diseases. Yours truly,

B. WILSON LORD.

AGAWAM, MASS., Sept. 9, 1878.

The Cuticura soap should be used for cleansing all diseased surfaces, as most soaps are injurious to the skin.

LEPROSY.

A Modern Miracle. Astonishing Results from the use of Cuticura.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen.—We have a case of Leprosy in our poorhouse which is being cured by your Cuticura remedies The county had employed all of our doctors and had sent to New York for advice, but to no avail.

The patient commenced using the Cuticura and immediately began getting better. He had been confined to his bed for two and one half years. Had not had his clothes on during this time. Last week he dressed for the first time.

When he walked, there would at least one quart of scales come off of him.

This happened every day.

We think it is a wonderful cure.

We do not think he is cured, but he is in a fair way to be cured to say the least.

Yours truly,

DUNNING BROTHERS,
Druggists and Book ellers.

ALLEGAN, MICH., Feb. 14, 1879.

NOTE.—Messrs. Dunning Brothers are thoroughly reliable gentlemen, and were unknown to us prior to the receipt of this letter. We firmly believe this Cuticura will permanently cure this very severe case of Leprosy, as it has done many others.

Prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, 360 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., and for sale by all Druggists and Dealers. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes containing two and one half times the quantity of small, $1. Resolvent, $1 per bottle. Cuticura Soap, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cents.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. —The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, Esq., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully,
WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me. The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WADDILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. See other column.

A sociable man is one who, when he has ten minutes to spare, goes and bothers somebody who hasn't, and always smokes Blackwell's fragrant Durham Bull Smoking Tobacco.

Why Will You

Allow a cold to advance in your system and thus encourage more serious maladies, such as Pneumonia, Hemorrhages and Lung troubles when an immediate relief can be so readily attained. Boschee's German Syrup has gained the largest sale in the world for the cure of Cough, Colds and the severest Lung Diseases. It is Dr. Boschee's famous German prescription, and is prepared with the greatest care, and no fear need be entertained in administering it to the youngest child, as per directions. The sale of this medicine is unprecedented. Since first introduced there has been a constant increasing demand and without a single report of a failure to do its work in any case. Ask your Druggist as to the truth of these remarks. Large size 75 cents. Try it and be convinced.

A Card.

All who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, etc., I will send a receipt that will cure you, free of charge. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

Quick Fortunes in Stocks

Vast sums of money are made in quick turns of stocks in Wall street. Business has never been more successful. By the new combination plan, large and small investments (from $25 to $10,000) are combined in one vast sum, and operated by the most skillful experience, securing immense power in the stock market and gaining splendid profits. Thousands of customers are thus united in one concurrent enterprise, and receive their pro rata profits monthly. An Indiana country merchant made $17,892.41 in four operations. A Texas cattle dealer made $32,615.94 in two combinations; a St. Louis shipping merchant made $47,876.21 in less than six months, all through the combination plan of Messrs. Lawrence & Co., which has realized the grandest successes in the history of the stock market. Their new circular, with "unerring rules for success," and complete explanations how to make money in stocks, mailed by Messrs. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, New York City.

BUFFALO LITHIA SPRINGS, VA.

A Card to the Public.

A mendacious scoundrel by the name of Frederick Marrow, of Granville county, North Carolina, has wantonly and maliciously circulated in that county that the yellow fever had broken out here among the refugees from Memphis. This report is a base lie, manufactured out of whole cloth, without the semblance of foundation in truth. There is not now, and has not been during the season, a serious case of acute disease of any sort at these Springs.

A GOOD PLAN

Anybody can learn to make money rapidly operating in stocks, by the "Two Unerring Rules for Success," in Messrs. Lawrence & Co.'s new circular. The combination method, which this firm has made so successful, enables people with large or small means to reap all the benefits of largest capital and best skill. Thousands of orders, in various sums, are pooled into one vast amount and co-operated as a mighty whole, thus securing to each shareholder all the advantages of the largest operator. Immense profits are divided monthly. Any amount, from $5 to $5,000, or more, can be used successfully. N Y Baptist Weekly, September 26th, 1878, says, "By the combination system $15 would make $75, or 5 per cent.; $50 pays $350, or 7 per cent.; $100 makes $1,000, or 10 per cent. on the stock, during the month, according to the market." Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, June 28th: "The combination method of operating stocks is the most successful ever adopted." New York Independent, Sept. 12th: "The combination system is founded upon correct business principles, and no person need be without an income while it is kept working by Messrs. Lawrence & Co." Brooklyn Journal, April 29th: "Our editor made a net profit of $101.25 from $20 in one of Messrs. Lawrence & Co.'s combination." New circular (mailed free) explains everything. Stocks and bonds wanted. Government bonds supplied. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, N. Y.
